DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see Remarks, filed September 16, 2004, with respect to claims 1,2,17 and 18 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of the claims has been withdrawn. However, claim 33, previously indicated allowable is rejected in light of a newly found prior art, as set forth below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Niida et al (US 6,118,806).

Niida et al discloses a CDMA receiver (see Fig.5), comprising; means (11,14) for applying despread processing to first and second reception signals that arrive via paths at respective timings, see Spread Code Timing, a weighting means (12,15) for deciding first and second weighting coefficients for the first and second despread reception signals based on the level of the signals (see col.2, lines 3-6) and applying the weighting to the first and second despread reception signals using the first and second weighting coefficients, see multipliers (13,16) and means (53) for combining the weighted and despread reception signals in accordance with power maximal ratio combining, wherein, if the power of the first signal is smaller than that of the second signal, the first weighting coefficient is smaller than the second weighting coefficient. Note that since the weights applied to the signals are in proportion to the respective amplitudes of the signals, which is another way of describing that, if one signal has less power relative to the other, then the weight coefficient to the signal is smaller to the weight coefficient to that other signal.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-32 are allowed.
